FORTRESS FALLS

After Resistance Unprecedented in History, Port Arthur Capitulates.

With Fierce Tenacity the Forces of the Mikado Harassed the No Less Brave Soldiers.

Port Arthur, whose hills have for months run red with the blood of the bravest of two warlike nations, has at last succumbed to the fierce tenacity of the Japanese attack. General Stoessel, most stubborn in carrying out the will of his sovereign, has seen the advance of the besieging army gain in momentum and energy until to hold out longer would have been a crime against humanity. The conditions of the surrender are not yet known, but in all quarters it is anticipated that they are such as an honorable soldier may accept from a brave and victorious enemy. At 9:45 o'clock last night the commissioners completed the signing of the capitulation agreement. Both armies had suspended hostilities five hours earlier. The city of Port Arthur will be occupied by the Japanese today.

The authorities at St. Petersburg, in the absence of direct official news from General Stoessel that Port Arthur has surrendered, have not permitted the news to become public. Emperor Nicholas is in the south of Russia and his ministers are for the time being in the dark as to what dispatches have been sent to him from the front.

Tokio was the scene of rejoicing, people of all ranks finding in the outcome compensation for all the sacrifice of life and money that was entailed in the ten months' siege.

To what extent the fall of Port Arthur will make for a restoration of peace is an open question. There is an encouraging note in the expression by Baron Hayashi, Japanese minister at London, of the "hope that in some way it will facilitate peace," though the pacific note is perhaps lost in the later words of the minister, which call attention to the fact that the besieging army will now be free to go north, where it will be an offset to the reinforcements General Kuropatkin has been receiving from Russia since the battle of Shakh.

The spirit of the Russians may be judged by the statement of the secretary of the embassy at London that the campaign will be renewed with fresh vigor in the spring, and that the nation will not be content to permit Port Arthur to remain in the hands of the Japanese.

Both in Paris and in London the opinion is that the squadron under Vice Admiral Rojestvensky, which started from Libau for the far East three months ago, will have to retrace its way home, as adherence to the original plans would invite disaster without probability of effecting a junction with the warships at present in the harbor of Vladivostok. That Japan will not be permitted to retain possession of Port Arthur without dispute is shown in the fact that Paris newspapers are already reviving the claim made in 1902 that the holding of that position commanding the Eastern seas by the Japanese would be a menace to European powers.

There is an expectation in diplomatic circles in St. Petersburg that some one of the powers may make a tender of friendly offices, and the intimation is conveyed that the United States may take the initiative. Should this be the case it could only be upon assurances from both the warring parties that the tender would be received by them in good part.

Early today two Russian torpedo launches arrived at Chefoo, and there were then seven Japanese torpedo boat destroyers in the harbor. Later in the morning four of the destroyers departed. Russian officers who have reached Chefoo relate that the Port Arthur garrison was completely worn out by five days of continuous fighting, that the supply of food was about exhausted, and that the limit of resistance had been reached when General Stoessel made his offer of capitulation.

—Dr. Stewart C. Johnson and wife, of Arlington, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tittsworth, over Sunday. Dr. Johnson has accepted a position with a lumber company in Louisiana and is making preparations to move there at once.

LADIES' MUSICAL

Vocal solo—"Solitude" by Adams, Mrs. Wooden.

Piano quartet—"Semiramide" by Rossini, Mrs. Aldridge, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Mullen, Miss Madden.

Miss Ross, of Richmond, was a guest and favored the Musical with an excellent piano solo, which the ladies enjoyed very much.

ADJOURNED THIS EVENING

County Commissioners' Session Ends After a Visit to County Infirmary.

The county commissioners inspected the county infirmary, east of town this afternoon, and adjourned this evening after a two days' session in which little of importance was transacted. Daniel Kinney was appointed Justice of the Peace to succeed Squire Thomas Poe, resigned.

The bids on stationery, printing and county supplies were rejected, owing to the fact that the wrong advertisement was inserted in the Jacksonian and the contracts could not legally be awarded. The bids will again be received on Jan. 17th, and will be allowed at that time. Advertisements for bids has been ordered. No claims were allowed.

GREENSBURG RAILROAD WRECK

As a result of the slipping of a switch bar at Rankin interlock, six miles east of Greensburg, early Sunday morning a Big Four east-bound freight train was wrecked and the engine, tender and three cars were ditched. The engine was turned completely over and Engineer Ford and Fireman Shoemaker escaped injury by jumping, although Ford was almost completely buried under the coal from the engine, and had to be dug out. The cars were loaded with shelled corn and hominy and when they turned over burst open. The track was torn up and blocked for a hundred feet or more. The Greensburg wrecking crew was unable to cope with the wreck and one from Indianapolis was summoned. Twenty-four hours were required to clear the track so that traffic could be resumed.

OFFICERS TOOK THE WHISKEY.

United States internal revenue officers paid Richmond a visit last Friday night and confiscated ten barrels of whiskey in the saloons which it alleged was not up to the standard. Whiskey of the same make is being confiscated at other places by the government officers.

BURGLAR IS BOUND OVER

William Kelley Waives Preliminary Hearing in Mayor's Court.

Man Will be Tried in February Term of Rush Circuit Court.

William Kelley, alias Scott, the man who was captured by Bert Meredith early Christmas morning in the rear of his home, and lodged in jail on the charge of attempted burglary, and who was afterwards recognized by Mrs. E. L. Smith as the man who entered her home the same night, has been bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $300.

Kelley was taken into police court this afternoon at one o'clock for his preliminary hearing. He could not secure an attorney and decided to waive preliminary examination whereupon he was bound over. Kelley's case will come up in the February term of court.

In the meantime evidence is accumulating against both of the men, and is of such a character as to make the State's case a strong one.

JUDGE SUSTAINS THE DEMURRER.

Judge Sparks Monday at Shelbyville sustained a demurrer to the complaint of Tax Ferret Sam Wallace, who sought by suit in the Shelby circuit court to recover his 30 per cent. commission on money collected under an alleged contract with the old Shelby county Board of Commissioners.

Judge Sparks held that the Board of Commissioners had no right to contract beyond the appropriation by the County Council, in any case. Further, he held that no officer, or agent doing business for Shelby county, had a right under the law to hold out money collected for service rendered, and that the proper procedure was to pay the money into the county treasury and then file a bill as the law directs.

THE EASTERN EXTENSION

Of I. & C. to be Constructed to Connersville at Once.

(Connersville News.)

Will Frazee of Rushville, a director and an active member of the I. & C. Traction company, was here today. He stated, in answer to a question, that construction work on the line between this city and Rushville would begin at once.

This carries out the prediction often made in these columns that there was an intention to hurry the work eastward at the earliest possible date. Of course the chief aim of the company is to reach a through Cincinnati connection, and it is fair to infer that with ample means at its command the company will carry its line far beyond Connersville during the year about to open.

CORN GROWERS' ASSOCIATION

And Indiana Stock Breeders' Association Meets at Indianapolis.

Several Well Known Rush County Agriculturalists on the Program.

The Annual Congress of Indiana Agricultural Associations, held under the auspices of the State Board of Agriculture, opened its session today at the State Capitol, Indianapolis. Several well known Rush county farmers and stock breeders are in attendance, a few of whom are on the program.

At 10 o'clock this morning the Fifty-third annual convention of the Indiana Delegate State Board of Agriculture convened in room 12 at the State House. Mayor J. W. Holtzman, of Indianapolis, delivered an address of welcome, as did Governor Durbin.

The delegates will meet again tomorrow morning.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the Indiana State Association of Fair Managers met in room 12. Thomas Humes, President and W. L. King, secretary of the Rush County Fair Association were in attendance. John Q. Thomas, of this city led the discussion on "Some of the Requisites of a Successful Fair and Some of the Mistakes of the Fair Managers," a paper read by Prof. J. H. Skinner, of Purdue University.

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock the Indiana Corn Growers' Association will meet at the State House. At the afternoon session which will be called to order at 1:15, T. A. Coleman, of near this city, is slated to lead the discussion on the topic "Seed Bed and the Cultivation of Corn."

At the meeting of the Indiana Shorthorn Breeders' Association, which holds three sessions tomorrow, Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, well known here, will read a paper on "Why Shorthorns are the Best Cattle for Indiana Farmers."

At the meeting of the Indiana Swine Breeders' Association, which meets at 10 a. m. Thursday, C. C. Cotton, of Manilla, will read a paper on "Is it Profitable to Raise Two Litters of Pigs a Year?"

On Thursday and Friday, the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Companies' Union of Indiana will meet and Fred A. Capp, of this city, who is the local agent, will probably attend.

The meetings of the agricultural Congress this week will no doubt be largely attended, and according to the stockmen, will surpass anything held heretofore.

STOUT-FLOYD

William Stout and Miss Roxie Floyd were united in marriage at the home of the bride's father, Marshall Floyd, on East Eighth street, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. W. P. McGarey. In all, about forty-five guests were present at the wedding among them being Andrew Pulliam and family, Ed. Miller and family, Miss Mollie Pulliam, Robert Perkins, George Stout, Howard Stout and family, Mrs. Wm. Floyd, Ed. Floyd and family, and Otis Floyd and family, Albert Mains and wife, Eddie Crumire, Mrs. Comodore Bennett and family and Wm. Moore and family.

Mr. Stout and wife have gone to housekeeping in the James Kratzer property on North Willow street.

Dr. H. H. Weist, a prominent physician of Richmond, was painfully injured at noon yesterday in that city, his horse injured so badly that it had to be killed, and his rig wrecked by being struck by a Dayton & Western traction car. Owing to the fact that there were several buildings in the way the doctor did not see the car until it was upon him. The physician, it is believed, will recover.

NEW YEARS WATCH PARTY

A B. C. Club Delightfully Entertain Their Gentlemen Friends Saturday Evening.

According to their annual custom, the A. B. C. club gave a watch party on New Years eve at the home of Miss Ethel Blackledge, on North Main street.

Those who attended were Miss Bertha Monjar, Roy Aldridge, Bertha Megee, Frank Cowing, Ruth Tevis, Claude Simpson, Mary Amos, Birney Spradling, Hazel Carr, Gladstone Barrett, Lydia Mauzy, Charles Yunker, Nelle Bigham, Don Root, Marie Crosby, Eugene Miller, Stella Downey, Hugh Green, of Indianapolis, Aileen Wilson, Denning Havens, Luella Amos, Claude Kever, of Fountain City, Jessie Monjar, Roy Harrold, Bernice Anderson, Donald Stackhouse, of Indianapolis, Leona Vance, Willie Brann, Orma Innis, Ralph Edgerton, Helen Campbell, Tom Meredith, Anna Jordan, Joe Ong, Ruth Robinson, of Indianapolis, Posey Denning, Blanche McDaniel, of Shelbyville, Benjamin Fry of Crawfordsville, Ethel Blackledge, Chase Mauzy and Murrel Edgerton of Fountain City.

The house was beautifully decorated in the Christmas colors, green and red. The two parlors were decorated in green. The large bay window in the south room was banked with palms and ferns. A bell of evergreen hung from the chandelier, from which green streamers were draped to the four corners of the room. The two dining rooms were decorated in red with similar decorations with bells, evergreen and cut flowers.

At 7:30 p. m. an elegant dinner was served in four courses, consisting of salted almonds, bullion, salted wafers, turkey course, salad course, cream, cake and coffee.

The evening was spent in a very pleasing manner. For a short time the party quietly enjoyed progressive conversation, three minutes at each table. For the remainder of the evening a most delightful entertainment had been prepared—a mock wedding. The parts for the play were assigned by allotment. The ushers were Ralph Edgerton, Donald Root, Eugene Miller, Roy Harrold. The Misses Ruth Tevis, Ethel Blackledge, Helen Campbell and Ruth Robertson were bridesmaids. Miss Blanche McDaniel was the maid of honor, and Miss Luella Amos the flower girl. It might all have been taken in stern reality with the New Year's bells hanging over the merry crowd, for while the strains of bridal song came softly from the next room, as Miss Nelle Bigham played Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride, Miss Hazel Carr, entered slowly on the arm of her father, Mr. Tom Meredith, and the groom, Gladstone Barrett, was waiting to receive her. The ceremony was very amusing and interesting. The questions asked by the minister (Rev.) O. E. Yunker, had been previously prepared for him and were full of wit.

This delightful entertainment occupied the company until twelve o'clock, when a short farewell was given to 1904 and the new year was received with shouts of joy.

WHAT THE ## PEOPLE SAY

In reply to an inquiry as to what was the news, John B. Wehrle stated to a representative of the Republican this morning, that he had received a proposal from a lady in this city Monday, but had looked into her financial standing and upon learning that she did not have money enough to keep a husband, he turned her down.

The Richmond Palladium, which issued seven papers a week, resolved on New Year's day to "cut out" one issue a week—the Monday paper, and explains its motive for doing so, thus: "The objection we have to a seven day paper is that it makes slaves of men. Everyday in the week continually grinding is more than the human system can or ought to stand. Our employees are justly entitled to one day in seven and we feel the need of it ourselves and are going to have it." The average reader, who thinks printing business is mere play does not realize what a grinding task it is to publish a daily paper.

Lawson Organ To Be Started.

For several days there have been rumors that Everybody's Magazine would change hands the first of January, and that the "Frenzied Finance" articles by Thomas W. Lawson would cease. These rumors have been denied by Erman J. Ridgway, president of the Ridgway-Thayer Company, proprietors of the magazine, but they are still receiving some credence. It may be that if the rumors are true they furnish the explanation for an Indianapolis project that has just been launched.

"Mavity's Magazine" is the name of a new publication, published in Indianapolis. Paul Mavity of this city, is the editor, and he has merged in the new magazine "The Chum," a little pocket publication which he has been getting out.

There is some mystery connected with the new magazine as to its purpose and backing. Mr. Mavity said that it was to be a Lawson organ and would back Thomas W. Lawson, the author of "Frenzied Finance," in the campaign he is carrying on. He would not say that Lawson's money was behind the magazine or that Lawson would be a contributor, but he hinted that others besides Lawson are interested financially in the success of Lawson's campaign and that some of them are responsible for the new publication. The February number, he said, would contain some matter that would throw light on the subject though the January number would not.—Indianapolis News.

The Republican has made arrangements whereby it will be able to supply the Mavity's Magazine for 25c in addition to the regular subscription price of the Daily Republican.

POLICY OF SUPPRESSION

Russian Bureaucracy Holds Back Bad News From People.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—While there is no longer any doubt in official circles in St. Petersburg that the fate of Port Arthur has been decided and General Stoessel's long and gallant defense ended, news of the surrender has not yet been allowed to reach the public. Foreign telegrams regarding the matter have been withheld from the newspapers pending the issue of the official announcement here. The government is following the dictates of its own judgment in this course; but the public so far is entirely unprepared for news which must prove a serious blow when it comes. The newspapers so far merely intimate that the defense of the garrison is proceeding as usual, but everyone has realized for some time that the end was approaching, and there is no question but the majority if they were prepared by a preliminary announcement by the government could forgive the loss of the fortress in admiration of the garrison's heroic defense.

Possibly some of the hesitation of the authorities here to make the announcement of the fall of Port Arthur is due to threats and rumors of radical demonstrations coupled with the absence of the emperor; but it is certain that no demonstration is likely which could assume serious proportions, and the radical leaders would be sure to alienate the sympathy of many even of the more liberal Russians if they chose such a moment for a revolutionary demonstration.

It has been learned that the telegram sent by Emperor Nicholas to General Stoessel vested the commander of the Port Arthur forces with discretionary powers, and urged him to exercise them rather than allow the defense to go to the last ditch. This may account for the apparently brief time required to conclude the negotiations between the Russian and Japanese commanders, no time having been occupied in communicating with Emperor Nicholas. It is equally certain that General Stoessel did not surrender without previous authorization.

A TOWN SPUNKS UP

Alleged Exorbitant Rates
For Water Leads to Municipal Action.

PLAN TO BUY THE PLANT

West Lafayette People Seek to Settle
Aggravating Controversy In a Way to Avoid Litigation.

By Buying Waterworks They Will Settle a Dispute That Has Been on For Years.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 3.—To avoid protracted litigation, and to settle a dispute that has been kept up for years, the town of West Lafayette will buy the water works. The town board will hold a special meeting this week to consider the matter. The rates have been exorbitant for years, and at a recent meeting of the town board the matter of making a new schedule was left to the action of a mass-meeting of citizens. The citizens reported a 50 per cent reduction in the existing rates, and the company refused to accept such a schedule.

STRIKER'S WIFE LED RIOTERS

Iron Workers Attempted to Take Comrades From Officers.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 3.—After a desperate fight with a dozen deputy sheriffs five of the American Steel Wire company's strikers who incited a riot at Indiana Harbor were arrested. The officers had been advised that the strikers had threatened another outbreak and four men, John K. Jakovich, Peter Lucas, Paul Vapovich and Henry Palmos, were arrested on their way to the factory. While the prisoners were on their way to the jail the wife of Palmos led a rescue party, but the officers fought off their assailants. John Pearson, a Swede, the ringleader of the strikers, was later caught in a barn and all the prisoners were taken to jail at Crownpoint.

Relatives Are Worried.

Washington, Ind., Jan. 3.—Relatives are greatly worried over the disappearance of Burton J. Mills, one of the most prominent grain dealers in Daviess county. He dealt largely in grain at his home town, Plainville, which is ten miles north of this city. His accounts showed that there was no trouble in his business affairs. His family relations were model, and he had no enemies. On the day that he was last seen Mills came to Washington and drew $200 from the Washington National bank. Mills left no word with his young wife other than that he would be back that day.

In the Interests of Science.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 3.—Charles C. Deam and E. B. Williamson of Bluffton have started for Central America on a scientific expedition. They were accompanied by scientists from Indiana university and Ohio state university. The United States government, Ohio and Indiana universities are assisting in bearing the expense. Besides making collections of flowers and insects they will make a collection of Southern fish for the government.

Alleged Embezzler on Trial.

Marion, Ind., Jan. 3.—The trial of John Watts, former city clerk, charged with embezzling city funds, is in progress in the circuit court. Watts is energetic in his fight and is active in the matter of investigating each ventruman's ability and constantly instructs his attorneys regarding jury-men. The case is to be a legal battle and Watts has retained some of the best talent of Grant county.

Downfall Due to Cigarettes.

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 3.—Unclaimed in the Delaware county infirmary lies the body of Charles Biner, thirty-five years old, whose death, physicians say, was directly due to excessive cigarette smoking. Ten years ago he had good prospects of business success, but, becoming a slave to the cigarette habit, friends and money slipped away from him and he was taken to the infirmary a week ago to die.

Died in Line of Duty.

Princeton, Ind., Jan. 3.—Thomas Cunningham, aged forty, trustee of Washington township, this county, and chairman of the Democratic county central committee, is dead of smallpox after a week's illness. He contracted the disease in discharge of his duties as trustee in attending to several mild cases in that township.

Gillespie Arguments in Progress.

Rising Sun, Ind., Jan. 3.—The Gillespie murder case will not go to the jury much before Wednesday night, if then. The arguments began this afternoon. Judge Cornet will not limit them, and it is thought they will take a day and a half.

Local Talent Suspected.

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 3.—A gang of burglars supposed to be Muncie residents, for a week has been burglarizing local saloons and stores.

Probable Case of Suicide.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 3.—The body of Mrs. Walter Sauer was found in a cistern. It is believed she committed suicide.

PREPARING FOR ACTION

Hoosier Legislators Gathering for the Bi-Annual Session.

Indianapolis, Jan. 3.—The advance guard of the members of the Indiana legislature, which will be convened in biennial session here Thursday morning, has arrived and the hotels are rapidly filling up. There will be nothing doing of an official nature before Wednesday night, when both branches of the legislature will caucus for the purpose of organizing. The Republicans will caucus at the statehouse. It is probable that the Democrats will meet at the Grand hotel. They will not be numerous enough here this time to require a large room, although they expect to have a voice in everything that goes on.

There are many old-timers in the crowd. Thirty who were members of the house two years ago have been returned. Over half the members of the senate have had legislative experience. It is rather amusing at times to see what patronizing airs the old members put on in introducing the new ones and in telling them what will be expected of them.

Most of the Republicans will have headquarters at the English and Clay-pool hotels. The Democrats, as usual, will rendezvous at the Grand, which has been their headquarters for many years.

Sidney Cantwell of Hartford City, who will be elected speaker of the house, and Hugh T. Miller, lieutenant governor-elect, are at the English, busy as bees receiving applications for committee appointments. It is not probable that either will have any announcements to make before next Monday.

Among the arrivals today were many men whose faces have been familiar for several years in the "third house," or more specifically in the lobby. Several veteran members of the railroad lobby are on hand ready to look after the interests of their employers.

There is much less interest than usual in the preliminaries, as nearly everything has been cut and dried for several weeks. It is probable that Senator Fremont Goodwin of Williamsport will be caucus chairman of the Republicans in the senate, and William Bossom of this city chairman of the house Republican caucus.

The railway commission bill promises to be one of the interesting features of the session. For that matter all legislation for or against railways is more or less interesting, according to the way the roads are affected. It is probable that these corporations spend most of the money that is spent in the lobby. It is not known what arrangements have been made for this session, but if it becomes necessary the roads will no doubt be on hand with old-time methods to keep down legislation that they may deem hurtful. But it was reported today that Governor Durbin and Governor-elect Hanly will recommend the passage of a fair railway commission bill, hence the railroad attorneys are not opposing the railway commission idea. It is said that they realize that a commission bill of some kind is liable to pass, so they are trying to have one made that will be fair.

Oliver Carmichael of Muncie, Wm. Morton of Kokomo, Republicans, and Zack Seifers of Salem, Democrat, are the oldest members of the house in point of continuous service. Each has returned for his third term. Seifers may be selected as a leader of the Democratic members, as he was always a strong debater. Morton says he has had enough experience in introducing bills and will "lay low." Elias Owen of Rockville, who was recently killed by a falling tree, would have been the oldest member in point of continuous service, as he had been re-elected for his fourth consecutive term.

Congressman James A. Hemenway of Booneville arrived here today and opened headquarters at the Claypool hotel. He was a central figure among the members of the legislature who were pleased to meet him. They were no more pleased than he, however, as he has never had opportunity before of meeting some of the men who voluntarily offered him their support in his race to succeed Vice President-elect Fairbanks. Mr. Hemenway will remain here till after the inauguration of Mr. Hanly as governor next Monday, and perhaps till after his election to the senate Jan. 17.

It is said that Warren G. Sayre of Wabash will be chairman of the house committee on ways and means; Ele Stansbury of Williamsport, chairman of the committee on judiciary; Prof. Howe of Irvington, chairman of the committee on education; O. M. Keyes of Dana, chairman of the committee on medicines; E. F. Branch, jr., of Martinsville, chairman of the committee on military affairs. Senator Fremont Goodwin of Williamsport may be chairman of the committee on finance in the senate, and Senator Will Wood of Lafayette chairman of the senate committee on judiciary.

The Return of Knox Assured.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 3.—Philander C. Knox of Pittsburg, the appointee of Governor Pennypacker as United States senator to succeed the late Matthew S. Quay, was unanimously nominated to succeed himself at a joint caucus last night by the Republican members of the senate and house. The Republicans are in an overwhelming majority in both bodies and Mr. Knox's nomination is equivalent to an election.

ON FIGHTING LINE

Hostile Armies In Upper Manchuria Keep Up a Constant Snipping.

ABOUT A MILE APART

In Some Places Hostile Forces Are Entrenched So Closely That Talking Can Be Heard.

Sorties Are of Frequent Occurrence and Booming of Artillery
Nightly Heard.

General Kuroki's Headquarters, Jan. 1, via Tientsin, Jan. 3.—The positions of the Japanese and Russian armies south of Mukden have not been materially changed during the past two months. In few places are the lines more than a mile apart, and they are so close before the Japanese left that loud talking in the Russian trenches can be plainly heard. Though the Russians became very quiet during the first half of December, they have renewed the bombardment of the Japanese center and left in the past fortnight and they have selected several points to which they devote the most attention.

The Japanese usually lie low in their trenches and remain silent. Often several hundred shells will be fired in a day without doing any damage, although occasionally a shell strikes an exposed group or kills some careless soldier. Almost every hour of the day or night artillery is booming or rifles are popping somewhere along the lines. The Russian bombardment usually begins before noon and continues until sunset, but it is often resumed from midnight to the breaking of day.

Frequently sorties are made by the companies or by detachment when the fighting becomes severe. Both armies are using the hand grenades as one of their regular weapons for close fighting. Reconnoitering forces constantly patrol the country on both flanks to guard against offensive movements, and to protect the auxiliary lines of communication. The Russians obtain quantities of supplies from Simlinitun, thirty miles west of Mukden, where the Chinese branch railroad ends, and they must protect the roads leading to that point, while the Japanese guard the highways to the Yalu river. The barren surface of the land and the remarkably clear atmosphere make surprises almost impossible. The fields are without shrubbery or other cover for the troops and the hills are bare and rocky. There are no forests within the area of operations and trees are few and widely scattered. The only cover for moving troops are the deep ravines which seam the country. There is seldom a cloud in the sky and the nights, even when the moon is not in evidence, are bright and starlit. The weather continues to be evenly cold, with no sudden change.

All the soldiers on the front live in underground huts, which are heated with charcoal. Field Marshal Oyama, General Kodama, his chief of staff, and General Fukushima occupy an ordinary Chinese house in a small village.

a Jury.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 3.—Charles L. Miss Page, who was forty years old, was killed while alone at home. Cuts in the throat were taken to indicate suicide, and the medical examiner so decided after viewing the body, but the next day an undertaker discovered that Miss Page had been stabbed in the back, and the fact of murder was established. At length Charles L. Tucker was arrested on suspicion.

AN INHERITANCE

(Original.)

My boy, I have sent for you to make a very important announcement. Since the Earl of Ballincorne is dead, childless, you are the rightful heir to that earldom. No, don't smile incredulously, thinking your old grandmother to be wandering or in her second childhood, but listen to what I am about to tell you.

I wish I could make you understand the difference in this early part of the nineteenth century, when Mr. Stephenson has succeeded in drawing coaches by steam, and the middle of the eighteenth, when coaching was in its prime and we who rode had the excitement of an occasional robbery. The highwayman was not the brute who now murders first and robs afterward, but was often chivalrous, especially to women. When I was a girl of twenty I traveled from London to York with my father, and on the road we met one of those gentlemen. We were passing a lonely part of the road in the dusk of the evening when we heard an order to the coachman to stop. A masked man rode up to the coach window, holding a pistol in our faces and demanding our valuables. His voice was soft and musical, his hand was white and shapely, and I noticed the lace that fell over it was of the finest texture.

My father had but little money with him, but did have a valuable snuffbox that had been presented him by the king himself. He told the highwayman that if he would send it to our house in York his messenger should receive five times its value and no questions asked. The robber scarcely seemed to hear him, so intent was he upon me, not the wrinkled old woman of today, but with as fair a skin, as blue an eye, as golden a head of hair as any girl in England.

"Good sir," said the robber, "I would not take your snuffbox but for the opportunity it gives me to take it to your house myself, and if I decline the price you put upon it please set the fact down to the influence of the young lady beside you, whose beauty and innocence prevent my retaining any article of yours. I have the honor, sir, to bid you a very good evening."

Raising his hat with all the grace of a courtier he turned away, directing the coachman to drive on.

That winter was a gay one in our set in town, and after attending numerous entertainments at the homes of our friends we concluded to return the civilities by giving a masked ball. Our house was lighted with a thousand candles, and the costumes of the guests were of the richest and wildest variety. One of the gentlemen personated a highwayman, wearing a brace of pistols in his belt, with an ugly looking knife to match. He came up to me and asked me to dance. The moment he spoke I recognized the man who had robbed us on the road from London.

I permitted him to lead me in the minuet. He danced so gracefully, his figure was so symmetrical, he was so courtly in his manner that every one noticed him. When the dance was finished he led me away to a window where we stood partly screened behind the curtains. Then he handed me my father's snuffbox.

"How did you dare come here?" I asked.

"I would have dared anything to see you again," he replied.

"Go at once," I said. "You will be caught. Every one has noticed you."

"I would willingly hang for the pleasure I have gained in one dance with you."

Despite the danger he ran we talked together so continuously that we began to excite attention. A strange happiness thrilled me. This fascinating highwayman had caught the fancy of a young girl naturally full of romance, and to know that he was risking his life to be with me was supremely delightful. I feared for him, but could not bear to let him go. Finally I saw my father coming toward us with flashing eyes. I knew by the way he looked at my companion that he had got some clew to his identity. We vanished in the crowd, slipped through a door into the garden, and my highwayman passed off the place in safety.

Later, when my father found me, I gave him the snuffbox. He sent out to notify the police that the highwayman was in town, but he was never caught.

One spring morning I was sitting in the garden in the rear of the house when above the wall I saw the head of a man. I was about to scream when he spoke. I recognized the voice of my highwayman lover. He persuaded me to make an appointment with him in a wood near the city, and there we met on several occasions. He confessed that he was the second son of a nobleman who had taken to the road from a keen love of adventure. He finally persuaded me at one of our meetings to go with him to a magistrate and be married. I never returned to my home, but sailed to France with my grandfather.

Don't start, don't bend your head for shame, at learning that you have descended from—I will not say a highwayman—a nobleman whose love for adventure blighted his life and made him an exile. My husband was beloved by all who knew him and worshiped by his wife and children. Even in those youthful escapades he never benefited by a shilling dishonestly, and many a person whom he stopped on the highway and found in need he helped.

The Earl of Ballincorne, his brother, dying, the title and estates descended to his only son, who died childless yesterday. His death leaves you the next in line. Here are the papers confirming you in your claim.

DEUSILLA GARRISON.
